

ABOUT THE FOUNDER

As we move briskly through the early years of the twenty-first century, that old axiom that “knowledge is power” has never been truer. Intellectual property truly has become the economic currency of this millennium.

No one anticipated this change better than Mr Henry Goh. Although the intellectual property industry was well established in the West in the 1970s, it was still new in Malaysia. Mr Henry Goh saw the future and, in 1977, he founded Henry Goh & Co.

Starting out with just one typewriter and a stack of forms, Mr Henry Goh was destined to become a pioneer in intellectual property protection in Malaysia. He spared no efforts in promoting IP awareness, continually reminding clients that their intellectual property is their most valuable possession.

Today, the firm that bears Mr Henry Goh’s name is consistently voted by peers as being among the top IP agencies in the country. One in five patent applications in Malaysia is filed by Henry Goh & Co. In collaboration with over 2,800 associates worldwide, the firm also provides global IP protection to both Fortune 500 companies and small businesses alike.

For over thirty years, Mr Henry Goh aspired to always try to meet the changing needs of his clients. His real legacy was that he believed in relationships. At Henry Goh & Co., that tradition continues today.

“Our success is a testament to the hard work, sacrifice and perseverance of this firm’s greatest assets: its people. Without their untiring efforts, we would not be the firm we are today.”

– Henry H P Goh, 1942-2008
